

If the last few years have put your retirement plans on hold — again — you need more than time. You need a better approach to investing.

At Mission Control Investment Strategies, we don't believe in giving the market the ability to destroy our clients' financial security. Using investment experience and proprietary strategies developed by Mission Control president Denny Holmes over 20 years of investing, we proactively manage client portfolios.

Mission Control's absolute return strategies are comparable to those used by hedge fund managers, however, your portfolio is held in your name at Fidelity Investments, which serves more than 23 million investors through individual and institutional accounts. You have daily internet access to your account as well as monthly statements directly from Fidelity. The result — professional management with transparency.

We welcome an opportunity to explain our proactive approach to investing and its results. Call or visit our web site today to request a complimentary copy of our research paper — Rethinking the Investment Decision: How to Exploit Today's Investment Opportunities — or to schedule a no-pressure, no-obligation strategy review with portfolio manager Denny Holmes.
